Artists and Designers in ACTION

In response to the results of the election, there may be, for many, understandable feelings of astonishment and hopelessness.

In its role as a center of rigorous inquiry and committed action for faculty and students, the RISD Research Office will host an open meeting at 6:30pm, Thursday 11/10 with the goal of exploring, as a community, what was missed, what we want to understand, and with the unique perspectives of artists and designers, what questions and creative action can be applied as tangible and constructive responses to counter the preventable threat of resignation and cynicism.

Pizza will be served.
