made by one of several antique cameras operated by antique photographers in the main square of town - La Plaza de Armas. I believe that there is a photograph on the first roll, of him working his contraption. I suggest that you duplicate ~~this~~ the group portrait as quickly as possible, as I do not entirely trust his year old chemicals,

Trujillo, Peru 8 Enero 1979

Dear Brad,

Hola mi amigo! ¿Como estás? You'll have to pardon the scrawly hand-writing! We've just begun the bus ride back to Lima from Trujillo, a winding path along the pacific coast, over mountains and into valleys. It is a twelve hour ride by bus. Trujillo is an incredible town, the capital of the ancient Chipu civilization. Not far from the center of town are various archaeological sites that are so overwhelming as to practically defy description. One such place is the Pyramids of the Sun and the Moon. The Pyramid of the Sun, I [illegible] largest such structure [illegible] of us undertook to climb [illegible] effort that was reward[illegible] view of the surrounding[illegible] and bamboo villages, and [illegible] the ever-present Andes [illegible] last two-thirds of the [illegible] you will hopefully convey [illegible] magnificence of the pl[illegible] of the humor of twen[illegible] through Peru (all too qu[illegible] away at everything in s[illegible] Nikons and Minoltas.
