中陰 bardo the space between; the state of existence between death and rebirth when one's consciousness is not connected with a physical body;
a transitional state; an intermediate state.
