He Likes You is photocopied & letterpress printed from plates & linocuts on Superfine, Larroque, Mouchette, Arick, & other papers I didn't choose till after I made this plate. Typefaces used are Kabel & Souvenir. Yes, my handwriting did look like that in 5th grade.

how to use a fortune teller (in case you forgot)

Stick thumbs and forefingers in the 4 sections of the fortune teller, hold it closed (by holding all four fingers close together), and ask a friend to choose 1 of the 4 options (traditionally, colors) indicated.

Open and close the 4 sections as follows: Pinch thumb and forefinger of each hand together while pulling hands apart. Close again. Separate thumb and forefinger of each hand while pushing thumbs together and forefingers together. Close again.

As you open and close the fortune teller, spell the name of the color out loud, one letter per opening of the fortune teller. End with it open.

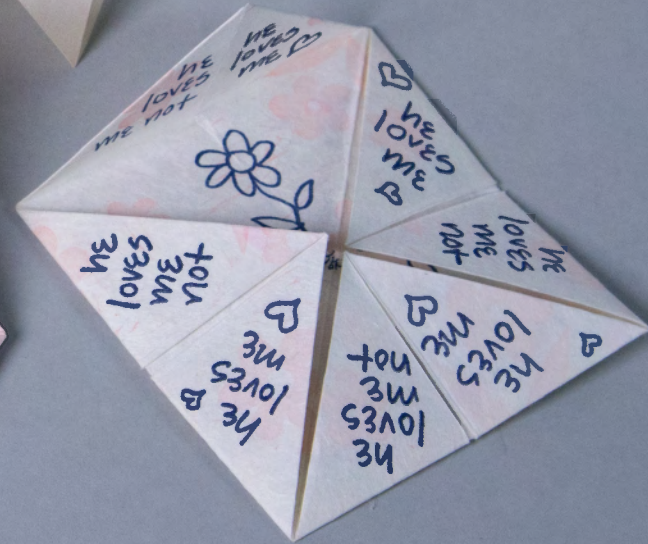

Friend chooses 1 of 4 options (traditionally, numbers) now visible inside the fortune teller. Count out the number while opening and closing the fortune teller as before. Friend picks a number again; this is also counted out. When your friend picks the third number, lift that flap to read the fortune underneath.
